Los Angeles, CA – 213.341.1331

Clients turn to Jasmin Arya for practical, compassionate guidance on estate planning, probate, and trust matters. Based in Los Angeles, California, Jasmin helps individuals and families structure, administer, and, when necessary, litigate estates and trusts so that wealth is preserved and transferred in accordance with their wishes.

Jasmin represents clients who are creating or updating estate plans, those who have recently lost a loved one and need assistance with probate or trust administration, and beneficiaries and fiduciaries involved in trust and probate disputes. She drafts and responds to pleadings, motions, and petitions—including contested probate petitions, motions for summary judgment, and motions for new trial—and appears in court to litigate these matters. She also handles all phases of discovery, from written discovery to taking and defending depositions, and she assists clients in mediation and settlement negotiations to achieve efficient, cost-effective resolutions.

On the planning side, Jasmin independently manages estate planning engagements from the initial consultation through execution of documents. A patient and attentive “people person,” she focuses on understanding each client’s goals and family dynamics, then tailoring wills, trusts, powers of attorney, and related instruments to meet those needs. Colleagues and clients know Jasmin as a diligent advocate who invests in each matter to secure the best possible outcome for the individuals and families she serves.
