New York, NY – 929.476.0069

Julie Levine is an accomplished commercial litigator, focused on construction law, real estate disputes, and commercial litigation. She has extensive experience representing general contractors, construction managers, lenders, borrowers, and property owners in both commercial and residential disputes.

Julie handles breach of contract claims, construction defects, project delays, mechanic's liens, and condominium board disputes. She has a proven track record of resolving complex construction-related disputes and honed her skill in real estate title litigation at a boutique firm, where she focused on determining bona fide purchaser status for lenders and property owners. Her strategic approach and in-depth industry knowledge make her a trusted advocate in high-stakes litigation.

She has successfully argued dispositive motions and appeals and defended clients before the Supreme Court of the State of New York, the Appellate Division (First and Second Departments) and the American Arbitration Association.
