Ft. Lauderdale, FL – 954.902.4882

Lorena Friger helps businesses and individuals navigate complex disputes with a strategic, practical approach that is focused on achieving meaningful results. She represents clients in a broad range of civil litigation matters in both state and federal courts, guiding them through each phase of the litigation process with clarity and purpose.

She takes a pragmatic approach to dispute resolution by evaluating each case with an eye toward efficiency, whether that involves pursuing early resolution or advancing claims through trial or appeal when necessary. By combining thorough legal analysis with practical judgment, she helps clients address risk, control costs, and pursue outcomes that support their long-term interests.

Lorena represents a diverse client base, including corporations, business owners, fiduciaries, trustees, personal representatives, beneficiaries, creditors, guardians, wards, and individuals. She has experience advising clients on matters involving business disputes, fiduciary issues, contract disputes, and other complex civil litigation matters. Her work often requires balancing legal considerations with business realities, allowing her to develop strategies that are both effective and adaptable.

Clients can expect an advocate who is committed to understanding their priorities and providing honest, practical advice throughout the litigation process. Lorena recognizes that legal disputes can be demanding and uncertain, and she is dedicated to ensuring clients remain informed, prepared, and confident as their matters progress.
