Offit Kurman Attorney Mark Johnson Joins CLE Webinar on Construction Site Inspections and Legal Considerations

February 11, 2025

Offit Kurman principal Mark Johnson is a panelist for the upcoming CLE webinar, "Construction Project Site Inspections: Plan Development, Regulatory Compliance, Contractual Issues, Dispute Resolution," on February 18 from 1:00-2:30 PM EST. Hosted by Strafford, the webinar will provide guidance on assisting clients with developing effective site inspection plans while addressing regulatory considerations, contractual provisions, and dispute resolution strategies.

Diligent site inspections are crucial in ensuring quality, safety, and compliance in construction projects. The panel will explore the essential components of a site inspection plan, including regulatory obligations, documentation procedures, and risk mitigation strategies. Additionally, the discussion will cover key contractual provisions and methods to prevent and resolve disputes that may arise during the inspection process.

With over 30 years of experience in construction, environmental, and real estate litigation, Mark Johnson has successfully represented owners, contractors, subcontractors, and design professionals in a broad range of construction disputes. His work spans state and federal courts, arbitrations, and administrative proceedings, including matters before the Civilian Board of Contract Appeals and the California Public Works Contract Arbitration program.
