Offit Kurman Attorney Matt Karmel Named in NJBIZ's 2024 Law Power 50 List

July 24, 2024

Attorney Matt Karmel, practice group leader of Offit Kurman's Environmental and Sustainability Practice Group, has been featured in the 2024 NJBIZ Law Power 50, a recognition list published by NJBIZ highlighting 50 influential attorneys in New Jersey who have made significant contributions to the legal field. The list acknowledges and celebrates the achievements of top legal professionals in the state, and selection criteria for this accolade include:

- Professional achievements
- Leadership
- Contributions to major legal matters
- Influence on legal policy and business law
- Involvement in legal and community organizations
- Overall reputation

Based in our Morris County, New Jersey office, Matt has built a practice at the intersection of environmental law and emerging sustainability issues. He serves a diverse range of clients, from Fortune 100 companies to homeowners, translating complex legal concepts into actionable business strategies. As a thought leader, Matt contributes to publications such as Waste Dive and BioCycle and speaks at institutions such as Rutgers University and Fordham Law. His commitment to sustainability extends to his roles on boards such as the Mid-Atlantic Solar & Storage Industries Association and the NJ Composting Council and through "The Planetary Lawyer Project," a newsletter he founded to inspire climate-focused legal careers and pro bono work.
