Offit Kurman Recognized in 2026 NLJ 500 Ranking of the Nation's Largest Law Firms

June 3, 2026

Offit Kurman has been named to the 2026 National Law Journal (NLJ) 500, earning a national ranking of No. 169 based on attorney headcount and placing the firm among the 500 largest law firms in the United States.

The NLJ 500 is published annually by the National Law Journal editorial team, in collaboration with Law.com Compass. The report provides an in-depth look at the nation's largest law firms, tracking attorney headcount and detailing where and how firms are expanding or contracting. The report also includes information on starting salaries among firms included in the ranking, offering a snapshot of broader trends shaping the legal industry.

Offit Kurman's inclusion in the 2026 NLJ 500 reflects the firm's continued growth and its commitment to building a platform that supports attorneys and serves clients across a wide range of industries and markets.

"Our recognition in the 2026 NLJ 500 is a meaningful milestone for the firm," said Timothy Lynch, president of Offit Kurman. "It reflects the dedication of our attorneys and professionals, as well as our focus on deliberate, sustainable growth. As we continue to expand our geographic footprint and deepen our client relationships, we remain committed to fostering a collaborative culture that allows our lawyers to do their best work."

The NLJ 500 is widely regarded as one of the legal industry's most comprehensive measures of firm size and growth, drawing on data submitted directly by participating firms. The 2026 edition analyzes attorney headcount trends nationwide and highlights shifts in how firms are responding to evolving client needs, market conditions and talent considerations.

Offit Kurman continues to grow through a combination of strategic lateral additions, practice development and geographic expansion, while maintaining an entrepreneurial approach that empowers attorneys to build and grow their practices within a supportive firm structure.
