Offit Kurman's Daniel Schneider Moderates Panel at AIA Tri-State Fusion Conference

November 19, 2024

Offit Kurman principal Daniel Schneider moderated "The Benefits of 100% Offsite Fabricated Stainless Steel Railing Systems" at the Tri-State AIA Fusion Conference on November 18.

This panel discussed the value of integrating 100% offsite fabricated and custom-designed stainless steel railing systems into architectural projects. With offsite fabrication, these railing systems offer a solution that enhances product quality, minimizes project waste, reduces costs, and streamlines construction processes. Attendees received an insightful exploration of how offsite fabrication supports innovative design goals and delivers new standards for quality in the building industry.

Milena Vega, Brand Strategist at AGS Stainless Inc., joined Daniel on the panel. She shared her expertise on the advantages of these offsite solutions and their impact on the construction landscape.
